

On many occasions in life, one does not do what he/she would like to do, but things that "everyone does", in other ways follow the fashion.

We are free when we decide what we want to do, not when others decide for us.

Today, the public authorities try to expel God from the society, because without God we are easily manageable and we are y influenced by them. They have influence in the media so as to form opinion among the majority, without being questioned of their dehumanizing ideas.

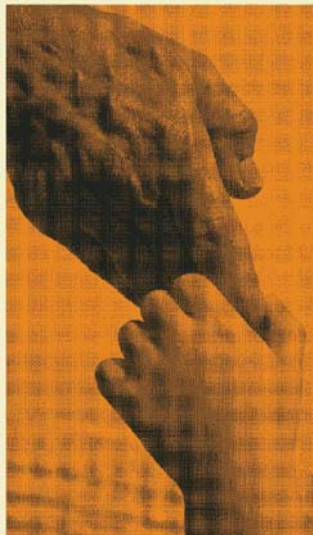

But God exists as always, the God of the Bible, he comes to search for men who do not bother him, bringing them salvation and hope in a world that only looks for lot of entertainment and gives little room for thoughts.

The entire Church is awaiting the God who comes, and at Christmas, will celebrate his intimate human appearance among men.

Decide if you want to open your door to God. ... or you want to live at the margin of God in the public life.

With the Church we tell you:
